

A New Worship Support Option for Congregations

Many churches today are doing their best with limited time, limited staff, or during seasons of transition. Some are between pastors. Some rely heavily on volunteers. Others are simply tired—and wondering how to keep worship meaningful without stretching people too thin.

Firebird Spirit's Worship Supply Kit (WSK) was created with those realities in mind.

The Worship Supply Kit is a ready-to-use Sunday worship resource that churches can turn to when they need extra support. It provides the pieces for a full worship service—music, scripture readings, prayers, and a sermon—in a way that is flexible and easy to use.

There is no single “right” way to use it.

Some congregations choose to watch the complete worship video together.

Others download just the music.

Some ask local members to read the scripture, prayers, or sermon.

Others mix and match—using only what they need that week.

In short: take what works for your congregation, and leave the rest.

The Worship Supply Kit was created by pastors, musicians, and worship leaders who have served churches for many years. It is designed to feel familiar, thoughtful, and welcoming—while being simple enough to use without extra stress or preparation.

It is also meant to be affordable and flexible. Churches can use it only when needed, without contracts or long-term commitments, and at a cost similar to bringing in a guest preacher for one Sunday.

This offering exists thanks to many people. Dozens of volunteers contribute their time and gifts each week—helping with music, readings, editing, and worship leadership. Their shared commitment makes this kind of support possible and reflects a growing understanding that the church works best when we support one another.

For churches navigating change, rest, or re-imagining what worship can look like, the Worship Supply Kit offers a simple and supportive option—ready when it's needed.
